Letter from Secretary López Department of Human Services

February 5, 2024

On behalf of the Maryland Department of Human Services, congratulations to the remarkable women who are being honored with the 2024 Maryland Women's Hall of Fame Award and the Young Women Leaders Award.

As we celebrate the historic accomplishments of women across our state, I'm reminded of the words of one of my favorite poets, Maya Angelou:

"Courage is the most important of all the virtues, because without courage you can't practice any other virtue consistently. You can practice any virtue erratically, but nothing consistently without courage." The women of Maryland are courageous.

Maryland has a rich history of women legislators, politicians, educators, community advocates, spiritual leaders, scientists, innovators, athletes, and philanthropists, who have paved the way for future generations through their courage and determination to move our state forward. This year's honorees are continuing this legacy. In each of their respective fields, they have taken our state to greater heights — even in the face of adversity.

We are proud to support the Maryland Commission for Women and its mission to assure that every Maryland resident, regardless of gender or identity, has access to the same opportunities to achieve their very best. We commend the Commission for creating space to celebrate women's contributions, and we extend our respect and very best wishes to this year's honorees.

In service,

Since the inception of the Maryland Women's Hall of Fame in 1985, the Commission for Women has memorialized the often unknown or overlooked contributions of women to our state's and our nation's history.

Every year in March, we recognize women whose achievements are of historic significance and whose accomplishments help to advance the rights of women and girls. Each year, the Commission for Women also recognizes young women in high school with records of academic excellence, outstanding leadership and extraordinary community service.

The theme for our celebration of Women's History Month this year is Celebrating Women's Leadership: Honoring Maryland's Firsts and Rising Leaders.

In March, 2024 we are inducting five extraordinary women into the Maryland Women's Hall of Fame, and we are recognizing five young women – future leaders, every one – with the Maryland Young Women Leaders Award.

Much appreciation is due to all the ARC Committee members who worked so hard on this project this year.

Please explore this program booklet to learn more about the Commission for Women, The Maryland Women's Hall of Fame, the Maryland Young Women Leaders Award, and to learn more about each of our honorees.

Thank you!

This year, as we celebrate Maryland women who have made history, we honor Adrienne Jones the first African American and the first woman Speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, Susan Lee the first Asian American to serve as Maryland's Secretary of State, first Asian American elected to the Senate, and first Chinese American elected to the General Assembly, Brooke Lierman Comptroller of the State of Maryland, the first woman to hold this office and the first woman independently elected to any one of Maryland's constitutional offices, Aruna Miller the second woman to serve as Lieutenant Governor and the first woman of color and the first immigrant elected to statewide office in Maryland, and Nancy Pelosi a U.S. Congresswoman (1987 -) and Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives (2007 – 2011, 2019 – 2023).

These exceptional women all have a vision of a better world and we pay tribute to them and thank them for their extraordinary service and selfless dedication.

The Maryland Women's Hall of Fame is a rich source of biographies of women who made significant and lasting contributions to the history and culture of our state and our nation. Established in 1985 as a partnership between the Maryland Commission for Women and the Women Legislators of Maryland, the Hall of Fame honors Maryland women whose lives and work are of historic significance to the economic, political, and cultural life of the state.

Normally, each year the Maryland Commission for Women and the Women Legislators of Maryland call for nominations of women who have made history in fields such as the arts, athletics, business, community advocacy, education, government, the humanities, human rights, law, medicine, the military, philanthropy, and science. Biographies of the honorees are displayed at the website of the Maryland State Archives at: <https://msa.maryland.gov/msa/educ/exhibits/womenshallfame/html/index.html>. A physical exhibit of the Maryland Women's Hall of Fame is located on the campus of Notre Dame of Maryland University in Baltimore.

Adrienne A. Jones

Hon. Adrienne A. Jones, Speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates

Speaker Adrienne A. Jones shattered two glass ceilings when she was unanimously elected by the full House of Delegates to serve as the first African American and the first woman Speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates.

Since becoming Speaker, she has led the Maryland House of Delegates in passing some of the most consequential bills in a generation. Speaker Jones ushered through The Blueprint for Maryland's Future, a 10-year plan that makes the largest investment in education in Maryland history. She implemented the nation's first comprehensive statewide policy agenda for racial and economic justice and made transformational police reforms, including making Maryland the first state in the nation to repeal the Law Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights. To protect women's reproductive health care, she led the effort to enshrine the right to reproductive freedom in Maryland's Constitution.

Prior to her election as Speaker, she also held the distinction of being the first African American woman to serve as Speaker Pro Tem in the Maryland House of Delegates, serving in that capacity under Speaker Mike Busch for 16 years. Speaker Jones served on the House Appropriations Committee, and was Chair of the Capital Budget and Education, and Economic Development Subcommittees. She has been a Delegate since 1997.

In February 2019, Speaker Jones received the Casper R. Taylor, Jr. Founder's Award, the highest award given to a member of the House of Delegates, recognizing her steadfast service. She was named three times to The Daily Record's "Top 100 Women in Maryland" and was inducted into the Circle of Excellence for Sustained Achievement. As the first Executive Director of the Baltimore County Office of Fair Practices and Community Affairs, she faithfully served the citizens of the County for over 37 years. She served as Deputy Director of the Baltimore County Office of Human Resources until her retirement from service in Baltimore County Government on June 30, 2014. During her civil service career, she worked with diverse populations of the County with dedication and sensitivity and founded the annual Baltimore County African American Cultural Festival.

Speaker Jones was born in Cowdensville, Maryland, a historic African American community located in Southwest Baltimore County. She attended Baltimore County Public Schools, graduating from Lansdowne High School and is a proud alumna of the University of Maryland Baltimore County where she received her Bachelor of Arts Degree in Psychology. In 2008, she received an Honorary Doctor of Law Degree from Goucher College, and in 2022, she received an Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters Degree from Morgan State University. She is the mother of two adult sons and proud grandmother of two grandchildren.

"I'm part of an organization whose motto is, 'Each one reach one; each one teach one.' That motto reminds me of why it's important to do this work. It's not about making history – it's about public service and blazing a path for more women to come after us.

Brooke Lierman was elected the 34th Comptroller of the state of Maryland in November of 2022, winning over 60 percent of the vote. She took office in January 2023, becoming the first woman to hold this office and the first woman independently elected to any one of Maryland's constitutional offices.

Ms. Lierman was born in Washington, D.C. She graduated from Walt Whitman High School in Montgomery County, Maryland, earned her bachelor's degree in 2001 at Dartmouth College and her law degree in 2008 at The University of Texas at Austin.

Before entering law school, she served as an AmeriCorps VISTA member at The DREAM Program in Burlington, Vermont and worked as Special Assistant for National Security at the Center for American Progress in Washington, D.C. She also worked as an organizer on several federal political campaigns, including for Senator Paul Wellstone. She practiced law for many years, focusing on civil rights and disability rights.

After law school, she and her husband moved to Fell's Point in Baltimore, where she clerked for a federal judge prior to joining a law firm. She was active in her neighborhood, and after experiencing the problems of poor transit service first-hand, she became a supporter of better public transit in Baltimore City. loopholes in affordable housing laws and create the office of statewide broadband.

Under her leadership, the Office of the Comptroller has adopted a vision to be a partner in creating a Maryland that is more equitable, more resilient, and more prosperous so that all Marylanders can reach their full potential.

She and her husband and two school-age children live in Baltimore City.

"I am truly honored to be inducted into the Maryland Women's Hall of Fame and to join a group of women who have inspired me through their persistence, leadership, and resolve. Each of us builds on the work of those who come before us, and I am grateful for and inspired by the many women who helped make it possible for me to put more cracks into the world's glass ceiling. When women do better, we all do better - and as our 34th Comptroller, I am focused on building a state that is more equitable, more resilient, and more prosperous for every Marylander. I am grateful to the Maryland Commission for Women and the Women Legislators of Maryland for this recognition, and I am committed to working for a world where all women have the opportunity to reach their full potential."

Maryland Comptroller Brooke Lierman

Aruna Miller

Hon. Aruna Miller Lt. Governor of Maryland (2023 -)

engineering from the Missouri University of Science and Technology.

Miller has devoted her life to public service and removing systemic barriers to opportunity.

For 25 years, she oversaw programs that advanced access to schools and employment centers, and made community facilities safe for pedestrians, bicyclists, transit users, and people with differing abilities. From 2010 to 2018, she represented District 15 in the Maryland House of Delegates, where she worked with her constituents to create legislation to invest in STEM education, streamline the regulatory process for small businesses, and was a champion for working families, survivors of domestic abuse, and the environment.

Miller served on the Ways and Means Committee and its Revenue, Transportation, and Education Subcommittees. Additionally, in her second term, she served on the Appropriations Committee, where she served as chair of the Oversight of Personnel Subcommittee, vice chair of the Transportation and Environment Subcommittee, and vice chair of the Capital Budget Subcommittee.

As Lieutenant Governor, her policy profile includes matters relating to transportation, mental health, and STEM equity.

Nancy Pelosi

Hon. Nancy Pelosi U.S. Congresswoman (1987 -), Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives (2007 – 2011, 2019 – 2023)

Nancy Pelosi served as the 52nd Speaker of the House of Representatives, having made history in 2007 when she was elected the first woman to serve as Speaker of the House. She made history again in January 2019 when she regained her position second-in-line to the presidency – the first person to do so in more than six decades.

Pelosi is the chief architect of generation-defining legislation under two Democratic administrations, including the Affordable Care Act and the American Rescue Plan. She led House Democrats for 20 years and previously served as House Democratic Whip. In 2013, she was inducted into the National Women's Hall of Fame at a ceremony in Seneca Falls, the birthplace of the American women's rights movement.

Pelosi has represented San Francisco in Congress for 36 years. Currently serving as Speaker Emerita of the House and as the Representative for California's 11th Congressional District, she is fighting For The People to lower costs, grow paychecks and create jobs.

Under the Biden Administration, Speaker Pelosi led the design and passage of the life-saving American Rescue Plan. This law turned the tide of the pandemic: vaccinating hundreds of millions of Americans, delivering direct assistance to families, creating millions of new jobs, supporting frontline workers and returning children safely to schools. Pelosi engineered passage of the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act to strengthen roads, bridges, ports, water systems and broadband access across the country. Under her leadership, the House paved the way for historic laws to lower health care costs and combat the climate crisis with the Inflation Reduction Act and reinvigorate American manufacturing and innovation with the CHIPS and Science Act.

During the Obama presidency, Speaker Pelosi orchestrated passage of the landmark Affordable Care Act: which has guaranteed protections for Americans with pre-existing conditions, forbid insurers from discriminating against women, ended annual and lifetime limits on coverage, and expanded affordable insurance to tens of millions more Americans. Pelosi also delivered the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act to rescue the nation from the depths of the financial crisis; the Dodd-Frank reforms to rein in big banks and strengthen consumer protections; and the Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act to restore the ability to fight pay discrimination in court.

A champion on climate, Pelosi has passed key investments in clean energy, conservation and community resilience. A defender of democracy, she has spearheaded House efforts to protect voting rights, to impeach President Trump for violating his oath of office, and to create the bipartisan Select Committee to Investigate

January 6th. A force for full equality, she has led the fight to repeal “Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell,” secure new protections against hate crimes and advance the watershed Equality Act. For decades, Pelosi has been a powerful voice for human rights in China and all around the world.

Additional key accomplishments signed into law during her four terms as Speaker include: landmark gun violence prevention measures; reform of the college financial aid system; expanding health care to eleven million American children; stronger ethics and transparency requirements in government; and more benefits for veterans and caregivers.

Pelosi comes from a strong family tradition of public service in Baltimore. Married to Paul Pelosi, she is a mother of five and grandmother of ten.

When people ask me, ‘What are the three most important issues facing the Congress?’ I always say the same thing: ‘Our children, our children, our children.’ Their health, their education, the economic security of their families, a healthy, safe community in which they can thrive, and a world at peace in which they can reach their fulfillment – that is my ‘why.’

U.S. Congresswoman - Nancy Pelosi
